

IBM i POWER AS A SERVICE

How does your IBM i system support your business? Do you need help and advice on how to get the maximum value from the platform?

The IBM™ i (AS/400, iSeries, System i) is one of the widest used general purpose business systems. With a long history the platform is still widely used in the market providing access to a large suite of business applications.

Advent One has over 20 years of experience in providing support to customers running the iSeries family of products and as requirements have changed we have continually updated our platform and environment to offer a world class IBM i managed service to clients.

Our service has significant benefits for the end user leveraging the following

- Zero down time backups providing always available production

- Gold Standard HA platform offering role swap capability
- Advanced System Monitoring providing real time data
- Automation of processes enabling consistent system performance
- Simplified and proven onboarding capability
- Access to a team of system experts

By taking advantage of our continued investment in the platform you will be able to save cost and time allowing teams to focus on new projects.

The IBM i managed service from Advent One can support a range of customer requirements from providing a long term archive platform through to enabling the business to leverage new capabilities. When coupled with other services from the Platform One suite the IBM i will continue to be a reliable and robust application platform.

We are confident in our delivery of our IBM i managed service and what we can offer. We would like to offer a 1 day discovery workshop with our system experts to evaluate your requirements.
